

Mrs. Spang's Poetry Not Risque, Asserts Listening Waiter

Woman, Whose Will Leaving $2,000,000 to Charity Is Attacked, Disparaged Husband, Servitor Says

The taking of testimony in the contest over the will of Mrs. Rosa E. Spang, brought by Mrs. Mabel Spang Crome, of Copenhagen, a daughter, was begun in the Surrogate's Court yesterday before Surrogate Cobham and a jury.

Mrs. Spang, who died at the age of seventy-four in her apartment at the Waldorf-Astoria, left her daughter an annuity of $10,000, bequeathing the remainder of her estate, which was valued at nearly $2,000,000, to Colonel Michael Friedman, president of B. Altman & Co., former Attorney General George W. Wickersham and Dr. Henry Dwight Chapin as trustees to found the "Rosa E. Spang Foundation." This institution was to be founded for "the relief of poverty and distress, and the care of babies and young children who through desertion by their parents or otherwise are objects of charity."

Mrs. Spang's husband, who was a steel manufacturer of Pittsburgh, left Mrs. Crome an annuity of $20,000. Mrs. Crome is contesting her mother's will on the ground that the testatrix was not of sound mind when she executed the instrument and that she was under undue influence.

Henry W. Taft, as counsel for the trustees appointed by Mrs. Spang, in opening his case spoke of the childhood of Mrs. Crome. He said it was with some difficulty that her parents were able to control her. Her father, he added, appointed a guardian for her, who was paid $1,600 a year, until the daughter married. Mr. Spang also provided in his will for this guardian at the rate of $1,200 a year during the balance of the beneficiary's life. Mr. Taft said that Mrs. Spang had the same ambition as her husband—to use her estate for charity. Mrs. Spang also followed the wishes of her husband, said Mr. Taft, when she left her daughter an annual allowance, instead of a principal part of the estate. Mrs. Crome now enjoying an income of $30,000 a year.

Mr. Taft said that although Messrs. Wickersham and Friedman and Dr. Chapin had been for many years friends of Mrs. Spang, and while Dr. Chapin was interested in institutions for children, they had no part in directing Mrs. Spang in the framing of her will. William F. Barry, private secretary of Mr. Wickersham, was the first to testify. He was a witness to the execution of the contested will. Mr. Barry said the testatrix was of clear mind and understanding at the time, and signed the document of her own volition, although she had to be helped out of bed by a nurse and then to a desk.

Leonard Ensinger, in charge of the waters on the floor of the Waldorf-Astoria where Mrs. Spang lived, also was present when the will was signed.

Under examination by former State Senator Edgar T. Brackett, counsel for Mrs. Crome, Ensinger said he received $10 a week in gratuities from Mrs. Spang and $100 at Christmas. The witness said that the woman discussed her family affairs with him and that she "talked in a disparaging manner about her husband, who was paralyzed and blind." Ensinger declared that Mrs. Spang read him poetry and stories. He would not admit, when asked by Senator Brackett, that these were risqué.

The trial will continue to-day.

Whalen Charges Bus Profiteering On Staten Island

Plant Commissioner Appeals to Public to Report All Auto Drivers Who Collect More Than 5-Cent Fares

Profiteering charges were made yesterday against some of the bus drivers on the new municipal routes on Staten Island. The demand for these buses has been so great since the cessation of service on the Midland Railway Company's trolley lines that some of the drivers have been charging more than a 5-cent fare.

These operators, according to Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, have been making more than $25 a day. In a public appeal made last night the Commissioner asked bus patrons to report all drivers who try to charge 10 cents, or more, for a ride.

Public Service Commissioner Nixon issued a statement yesterday complaining that the bus has the advantage over the trolley in the matter of equipment. "Commissioner Whalen has done remarkably well and deserves much credit for so promptly putting the bus system into operation."

"We probably will have to charge more in fare as the service develops, but with new, up-to-date equipment the bus has the advantage over the trolley. Large crowds, however, cannot be transported for great distances as well by the buses as by rail."

"We can learn in a few weeks the weak and strong points of both systems, but every effort should be made to restore railway service and build it up to a high state of efficiency, or Staten Island will have a tremendous setback."

Federal Judge Chatfield yesterday signed an order directing Jacob Brenner, temporary receiver of the Staten Island Midway Railway Company, to pay the wages of employees through January 17 and the following day, amounting to $4,468.56. When Mr. Brenner took charge of the company he found a balance of $7,580.95 in the bank. The wages will be paid from these funds.

The case of the city against the company opened yesterday before Justice Cropper, in the Brooklyn Supreme Court. After considerable discussion about the service of the injunction upon the company, the case was adjourned until next Tuesday.

La Guardia Will Ask Inquiry Into Sale of Army Food

Aldermanic President Wants Itemized Account of All Money Spent and Received and Where Surplus Went

A demand for an investigation into the sale of army surplus food by the city will be made to-day by F. H. La Guardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, in a resolution presented to the Board of Estimate.

Mr. La Guardia said that his resolution was prompted by the fact that a profit was reported on the sale. This was not turned over to the city, although many of the city's employees and facilities were used.

He said that his interest in the sale of army foodstuffs to the public dated back to his membership in the special committee of investigation while a member of the House of Representatives. He declared that he fought against selling the food for export, although the then director of sales of the Department and others thought that the food was not prepared in a manner acceptable to American housewives. He managed to dissuade this, he said.

Mr. La Guardia telegraphed Representative William Graham, chairman of the special committee of investigation, asking him to investigate reports here that the army would limit the sale of the food to the city, prohibiting the distribution to retailers and other agencies. He charged that such a practice would be in direct violation of the resolution passed by the House placing the food on sale and guaranteeing to dispose of it at low prices, directly to the people.

In discussing his resolution, to be introduced to-day, Mr. La Guardia declared that he thought the city should receive the $311,000 reported to have been cleared in the sale of $3,000,000 worth of surplus foods to the public. He said that he had heard that women volunteer workers were clamoring to the Mayor for payment.

Mr. La Guardia declared, "what happened to the $311,000 spent for salaries in the sale of the food. If the workers were volunteers, or lent by city departments, how is it that so much money was needed to pay them? There was a total of $145,000 spent for trucking. Who did it? Friends of politicians? This will be threshed out if the investigation I suggest is permitted."

Mr. La Guardia's resolution follows: "Whereas, The City of New York, through its Department of Markets, heretofore sold for itself, or for the account of the United States government, certain food products; and

"Whereas, It has been charged by the former Commissioner of Markets that a profit was made on the sale of such food; and

"Whereas, It does not appear that said profit was turned over to the City Chamberlain or other city officials duly authorized to receive such funds; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That this board direct the Comptroller to investigate the matter and ascertain if any profits were derived from the sale of food by the Department of Markets, the amount of such profits; also to ascertain and report the expenses incurred for the sale of such foods, giving itemized lists of money paid for help, trucking and other incidental expenses not specifically covered by city appropriations."

Mr. La Guardia declared that if the resolution were defeated he would continue his fight for a thorough investigation of the sale.

Move to Exile "Reds" to Philippines Is Opposed

Secretary of Islands' Mission Warns Dr. Butler Not to Spread Bolshevism There

The suggestion made by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, in a speech Monday night, that an exile colony be established in the Philippines for deported "Reds," was strongly condemned yesterday by Maximo M. Kalaw, secretary of the Philippine Mission, in an open letter to Dr. Butler. Mr. Kalaw calls Dr. Butler a "zealous woodman bent on cutting down the loftiest and highest tree of the ranch, the only tree which has been free from any germs of Bolshevism."

"Have you read," the letter asks, "during the last six years in which the world has been in turmoil, of bloodshed, mob and rioting in the Philippine Islands? Have you been told of the government's overthrow, soldiers marching and battles fought in the lonely Philippine Islands? No, you have not. The Philippines, a peaceful race, educated in the modern schools where the soundest Americanism is taught, grasping every opportunity to demonstrate their love for self-government, have been the only people on earth who have developed into full manhood without the bloody procedure of war."

"Its social fabric is free from Bolshevik tendencies because, while it is a land of plenty, it is not a land of super-rich, of the domineering millionaires and the absentee landlord. There is where property is evenly divided, where practically everybody has a farm of his own, independent of any absentee landlord. There is where American, through her teachers, has taught the real Americanism, freedom without license and equal opportunity for all."

Mr. Kalaw asserts that a radical colony on one of the islands of the Philippines would be "a land of radicalism, and would 'undo' the work of twenty years of American 'undoism.'"

"Although there are 3,000 islands in the Philippines," he states, "they are so near each other that the loud-voiced radicals on one of them would be soon heard in the others, and, therefore, when you contaminate one you will contaminate the rest."

Policeman Crouse Gets 7 to 14 Years For Fur Robbery

Plea for Leniency Because of Past Good Record and Service in Army Is Refused by Court

A sentence of from seven and one-half to fourteen years in Sing Sing prison was imposed yesterday on Herman Crouse, the policeman convicted last Tuesday in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn, before Justice Kapper, of complicity in the $15,000 robbery of the fur factory of Starobin & Dubin, 715 Herkimer Street, on December 1 last.

Crouse was found guilty of burglary in the third degree and grand larceny in the first degree. On the former conviction his sentence is two and one-half years, and the grand larceny sentence, which is to begin immediately upon the expiration of that time, is for from five to nine and one-half years. Crouse was a patrolman in the 87th Precinct (Atlantic Avenue station).

A plea for leniency was made by the former patrolman's counsel, William J. Fallon, who called attention to the fact that Crouse was a member of the Marine Corps for five years, winning commendation for valor, and that he was a boxer, and that his record for fourteen years on the police force showed no other complaints. District Attorney Sternberg, however, refused to give the maximum punishment. He called attention to the fact that while Crouse had sworn to preserve and enforce law and order he had plotted to rob.

"It may be true," he declared, "that in times gone by this man was brave. However, I have information that many burglaries have been committed in the area and under the name of Crouse. He was connected, that bear striking resemblance of the handwriting of the prisoner. I declare him to be the arch conspirator in the burglaries in that district."

Justice Kapper, before pronouncing sentence, said: "The defendant occupying, of course, the position of a guardian of the peace, clothed in uniform and under the oath of a member of this very great police force of the City of New York, could not possibly be dealt with leniently by a judge who is mindful of his obligations to the public."

"Bennie" Sternberg, alleged accomplice of Crouse in the Starobin & Dubin robbery, was arrested last night in a hotel in Toronto by Detective Frank Doherty, of the Miller Avenue station, Brooklyn, who wired news of the capture to Second Deputy Police Commissioner Ladd. Sternberg, according to Doherty's telegram, was in this city on his way to New York.

Sternberg is charged with having been paymaster of the fur robbers. He disappeared from his home, 48 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, shortly after the crime was committed. Following the murder of Elsie Hilari, who was found strangled in the Hotel Martineau, jewelry worth $4,000 had been stolen from the woman. He was released because of lack of evidence to connect him with the killing.

Marshall Field Quits Clerkship To Direct $120,000,000 Estate

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Captain Marshall Field 34 to-day quit his job of three months as a broker's clerk for what he termed a "better one." He assumed management of the $120,000,000 estate built up by his grandfather of the same name.

"Of course, I could not learn much about the stocks and bonds business in three months," Captain Field said, "but I have grasped enough to help in the administration of the estate, which will take all of my time from now on."
